Road Acceptance Recommended

In its meeting Tuesday night, the Murray Planning Commission reversed an earlier decision by voting to recommend to the Murray Common Council that it (the council) accept Oxford and Chaucer Drives in the Canterbury Estates subdivision.

The commission, in its Aug. 21 meeting, voted to not recommend the council accept the roads.

Voting in last night's meeting was 4-2 in favor of the recommendation. Maurice Christopher, Marshall Gordon, H.T. Waldron and Howard Koenen voted yes while commission chairman Greg McKeel and Wendy Singer voted no.

The council, in its July 26 meeting, had referred the matter to the commission.

City planner Steve Zea stated in the August planning meeting that city road inspector Ray Clark examined the roads. Zea said Clark, after the inspection, had stated that he felt the roads failed to meet city standards.

Zea said Clark could not attend last night's meeting due to a schedule conflict.

When the subdivision plat was originally accepted in the June 1968 planning meeting, the development was part of the county. However, in 1971 when the subdivision unit containing two roads was annexed into the city, the streets were not accepted.

Zea said that subdivision roads are not required to be paved. But, he emphasized if the developer decides to pave the roads, they must meet and be maintained under current state road regulations.

According to Zea, those regulations are six inches of compacted gravel with a two-inch base coat and a one-inch top coat.

Zea added that if the council does accept the streets, it will not mean that the city will upgrade them right away.

In other action by the commission, a public hearing to discuss land use and the housing element was held during the meeting. There was no participation from the few who attended the meeting. The commission members then agreed to postpone a motion to accept the document pending oral or written suggestions that could be made by the October commission meeting.

Zea stated that several organizations in the city have not yet responded to letters concerning a proposed transportation committee. It was suggested at the last planning meeting that members from several businesses, organizations and minority groups in the city comprise the committee. The committee's function will be to make a final recommendation on the transportation study to the commission.

The proposed meeting date of the committee is sometime in October. Zea said he again would try to get in touch with the groups not yet responding. He added he and McKeel would discuss possible members for the committee.

Ted Billington attended the meeting to explain a preliminary plat of the Woodgate subdivision.

Developer of the subdivision, located south of Kentucky 94 and east of Johnny Robertson Road, is Bob Howorka of Minnesota, Billington said.

After some discussion, the commission members decided to examine the plat further before making a motion of acceptance. Zea said he would send letters to adjacent property owners informing them of the plat.

Electric Power Flickers Back As Workers Continue Restoration

By The Associated Press
Electric power flickered back on in southeast Mississippi homes and businesses today as more than 1,000 workers continued restoring service to the area shattered by Hurricane Frederic.

State officials urged persons who were not suffering extreme hardship to allow others to apply first for food stamps at several centers along the Mississippi Gulf Coast and inland.

"We're encouraging those who are not in a critical situation — where their houses are not completely gone or cannot be lived in — to let those in worse shape to come first," said Ken Phillips, director of emergency services for hard-hit Jackson County. "But it doesn't do much good."

A preliminary report from the National Weather Service in Mobile, Ala., released Tuesday, revealed Frederic carried winds of 145 mph, flooded streets with more than 8 inches of rain, pelted the Alabama Gulf Coast with tides of 12 feet and caused more than $1.25 billion in damage.

Those findings gave some official indication as to the devastation and conditions faced on the Gulf Coast Sept. 12 and 13 when Hurricane Frederic came inland near Mobile.

In its findings, the weather service said rainfall ranged from 4.62 inches at Fairhope, Ala., to 8.55 inches in Mobile.

School Administrators, Boards To Study Program At Calloway High School

School board members and school administrators from 17 area school districts will study the 1980 Kentucky School Boards Association Legislative Program and develop strategies for advocating local control of public education at the annual meeting of the First Region of the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) scheduled for 7:00 p.m., September 26, at Calloway County High School.

"As school board members and superintendents, we must take the initiative in increasing the public's understanding of the role of elected school boards as educational policy makers. We must also help parents and taxpayers realize the importance of local law control of public education," said William L. Land, a member of the Eminence Board of Education and President of KSBA.

"We will be organizing local board members and administrators to actively work toward informing the public of threats to their control of education," noted Land.

Land stated that board members and superintendents will also work toward publishing the 1980 KSBA legislative program. "Our legislative package is a positive one, designed to meet current needs of Kentucky education. It provides for teacher salary increases, lower pupil-teacher ratios, improved school facilities and programs and retaining maximum decision making at the local level. We believe it is a program that any citizen or official concerned about improving our educational programs will support."

Walter Byars, chairman of the Calloway County Board of Education, is chairman of the KSBA First Region. Tot Waldon, a member of the Ballard County Board of Education, serves as regional vice-chairman and Jack Rose, Calloway County School superintendent, is regional secretary.

Other KSBA officials attending the meeting will include Charles Brauch vice-president of KSBA and a member of the Bardonia Board of Education, Dr. Donald Wight, a member of the Crittenden County Board of Education and a member of the KSBA executive committee, and Leonard Elrod, chairman of the McCracken County Board of Education and a member of the KSBA executive committee.

The KSBA First Region includes the county school districts of Ballard, Caldwell, Calloway, Carlisle, Crittenden, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, Livingston, Lyon, Marshall, McCracken, and Trigg; and the independent school districts of Fulton, Mayfield, Murray and Paducah.

The Kentucky School Boards Association is a non-profit service organization working to improve educational opportunities for Kentucky children and to strengthen local control of public education, a spokesman said.

Parks System Seeks Budget Hike

Board Appeals To Fiscal Court

By DEBBIE N. LEE
Staff Reporter

Representatives of the Murray-Calloway County Parks Board appealed to the members of the Calloway County Fiscal Court Tuesday afternoon for an additional allocation for salaries through the end of the year and a substantial increase in the 1980 parks budget.

Bettye Baker, member of the parks board finance committee, said that it would cost $3,472.16 to keep two full-time parks employees on the payroll from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31. The two employees, Wanda Morris, bookkeeper, and Charlie Scott, field supervisor, were hired on the federal CETA program. Their employment will terminate Sept. 30 because both have been on the program for two years.

Mrs. Baker said that the two employees, who have seven years parks experience between them, were key personnel who have been instrumental in the development of the city-county parks system. She stated the employees were needed for the continuity and stability of the program.

E. L. Howe Jr., parks board finance committee member, informed the court that the CETA program had saved the parks system between $13,000 and $15,000 a year since 1976.

The court approved the payment of $1,736.08, which is half the salaries of the two employees through the end of the year. The Murray Common Council, which jointly funds the parks system with the county, approved paying the other half of the salaries at its Aug. 23 meeting.

Mrs. Baker also presented the court with the parks system's proposed 1980 budget, which asks for a $36,000 increase over the 1979 budget. This would raise the city council and the fiscal court's parks allocation from $36,000 this year to $54,000 next year.

She pointed out that more than half of the increase was to cover the salaries of the two employees, Mrs. Morris and Scott. The permanent addition of these employees would bring the number of full-time parks employees to four, including parks director Gary Hohman and maintenance foreman Gene West.

In addition to being able to staff park positions, Mrs. Baker said that the increase is needed for supplies to maintain the new park and greater capital expenditures for the old and new park.

Two delegations of county residents appeared before the court to ask for corrections in road situations. Ten residents of Parker Road, which runs from Highway 94 East to the Van Cleave Road, said their road needed more gravel and that a drainage problem needed to be corrected.

The second group, residents of East Y Manor, protested the resurfacing of their roads by the county road department during the latter part of August. The department resurfaced the asphalt blacktop roads with tar and white rock.

The residents, who claim the resulting gravel roads have devalued their property, claimed that the roads had only a few potholes that needed repair. Magistrate Gil Hopson said the roads contained several cracks which would have allowed moisture to get under the blacktop and damage the road during the winter months.

In other business, the court voted to change the names of two roads. Sliger Road will be known as Linzy B. Drive, while Ford Road will be changed to Gibbs Store Road. The court also accepted a petition to close the Took Wilson Road.

Harold Hurt, attorney for John Tucker, and Nat Ryan Hughes, attorney for Rollie Henson, presented their clients' cases concerning the closing of a road in the Kirksey Subdivision. The petition to close the road between lots five and six was approved at the July 18 fiscal court meeting subject to the approval of Tucker or Hurt.

Hurt contends that although the road is a public road, the county has not accepted it and therefore cannot close it. County judge-executive Robert O. Miller said action would be taken on the matter at the October meeting after it is discerned whether the county has accepted the road.

Upon the suggestion of the magistrates, Miller said that he would write the state highway department requesting a four-way flashing yellow light at the Wiswell intersection and a two-way red and two-way yellow light at the Penny intersection.

Hurt, acting as attorney for Murray Cablevision, requested that the court establish an ordinance creating a franchise for cable television services in the county. The court decided to advertise for bids for the service.

Budget Boost Approval Seen As U.S. Challenge To Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate backers of higher military spending, flexing their muscle in the midst of current Salt II debates, see approval of a three-year boost in defense spending as a sign of U.S. willingness to challenge Soviet military might.

However, Defense Secretary Harold Brown said today that the Senate-approved $24.9 billion increases are more than are needed to maintain an adequate national defense.

The Senate action includes a 3 percent increase in fiscal 1980 and 5 percent boosts in the second and third years.

"My own judgment is that ... 3 percent is the proper figure at this time ...

because the programs that such a real growth rate will finance are adequate to meet our objectives and trends we see," Brown told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Supporters of a strong national defense praised the Tuesday Senate action.

"I think it means that the U.S. Senate, reflecting the view of the American people, has declared that we are moving out of the post-Vietnam era," declared Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., one of the Pentagon's leading allies on Capitol Hill.

"We're sending strong signals to our allies and our adversaries around the world that while we don't want an arms race, we're not willing to allow a unilateral, one-sided arms race to continue with the Soviet Union being the one that's racing," Nunn added.

The Senate approved the 3 percent increase in 1980 defense spending, after inflation is deducted, on a 78-19 vote Tuesday, only hours after deciding to force $3.6 billion in savings, mostly from social programs.

The increased defense spending would cost $3.2 billion in fiscal 1980, which starts Oct. 1.

The Senate also voted to increase defense spending by 5 percent above inflation in 1981 and 1982, although that $21.7 billion hike would not be binding on the next two Congresses.

President Carter has supported a 3 percent increase in real defense spending and has pledged a hike of that size to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He has objected, however, to a 5 percent spending hike in 1981 and 1982.

The Senate was set to complete work on its proposed 1980 budget today with the House slated to begin voting on its proposed 1980 spending limits, including a figure for defense.

Differences between the two chambers will be resolved in a conference committee.

Of Sewerage Treatment Project

Property Owners To Control Fate

The future of a sewerage treatment project for the Kentucky Lake community of Aurora hinges on participation by property owners in the resort town, a group of Aurora citizens was told at a public hearing at Kenlake Hotel.

Joe Gardner, chairman of Marshall County Sanitation District Number One, said that completion of plans for the $754,000 sewerage system is dependent on the community's ability to provide $140,000 in local funds. Of that amount, Gardner said he anticipates the district receiving $70,000 through a loan from the Farmers' Home Administration.

The remaining $70,000 must be collected through tap-on fees charged the 32 businesses and 16 residences within the boundaries of the district. The tap-on fees would be $1,000 for residents and $1,650 for businesses in the district, according to Ray Parish of Community Program Consultants, a Paducah engineering firm.

Although the system is based on the 48 customers, Robert Lowe, Jr., an advisor to the sanitation district, has estimated it has the potential of serving four additional businesses and six additional residences.

Lowe said the district board would need $100 as "good faith" money from all interested parties by the end of this month. The remaining amount of an individual's tap-on fee would be due in February, the advisory added.

"We've got to have the firm commitment," district board member Don Eubanks said about those paying tap-on fees. "We set a schedule for February," Parish said, but he conceded the deadline could be changed to March or April.

The district has already been promised $240,000 in Section 304 Economic Development Administration funds with state matching funds of $60,000. An additional $314,000 in EDA funds brings the total grants for the project to $614,000.

Parish noted that the tap-on fees would probably increase once the project passes the funding stage in February. He said such fees would be $2,500 for a business and $1,500 for a residence once the project funding has been completed.

The entire sewerage system would be tied into the sewerage treatment plant at Kenlake Resort Park.

Gilbert Sears, a university of Kentucky community planning consultant, said he "saw an opportunity to work together to serve both the state park and the community" when Kenlake went to a new treatment facility in 1977.

The project is expected to extend 500 feet along either side of U. S. 68 in Aurora. Anyone beyond that 500 foot limit would have to pay for the installation of the sewer line to the main.

Language Needs Unisex Pronoun

DEAR ABBY: Don't back down! You were not wrong when you advised your readers to "consult a lawyer, and pay him for what he knows." He and him become personal pronouns when referring to both sexes.

Please inform Mandy Stellman of Milwaukee and Ms. Perlman of St. Paul, who should not object to being known as Mandy Stell—and Ms. Perl—after removing the "man" from their names, that the old rule still holds.

So don't apologize, Abby. We appreciate the fine lawyers, doctors, clergy and those in other vocations who are of the fairer sex, but let's not bend over backwards to distinguish whether he has acquired a 5 o'clock shadow, or a shiny nose just before dinner. It is HIS vocational performance that counts.

GEORGE WASHINGTON BOWEN
DEAR GEORGE: I cannot tell a lie. I find it a nuisance to write "he/she" and "him/her." And I abhor that new style journalism that refers to women by their last names. I find myself backing up to re-read entire paragraphs in order to find out if the "Fonda" is JANE or HENRY!

DEAR ABBY: I am being married in six weeks, and everything would be perfect if it weren't for the way my mother feels about my fiancé. She keeps telling me it's still not too late to change my mind even though she knows how much I love Ron. (He's 26 and I'm 24.)

He's a wonderful person and I have never loved anyone the way I love him, but Mom thinks I deserve a better-looking man. Can you believe it, Abby? I've gone with some gorgeous men, but they were all so in love with themselves that they couldn't love anyone else.

True, Ron is short and he doesn't have a very good complexion, but he has the most beautiful, honest eyes I've ever seen, and to me he is handsome!

I am no beauty, but my mother thinks I am. I am happy with what I have, but my mother is making me miserable. I can't take much more of her hassling. What should I do?

UNHAPPY BRIDE

DEAR UNHAPPY: Tune mother out when she puts down Ron. She's wrong, of course. Handsome is as handsome does.

DEAR ABBY: Someone who had worked in a government agency for 15 years wrote to say that the average person is an "idiot." To support that statement the writer explained that a woman was given an employment form to fill out. One of the routine questions was "SEX?" In response to that question, she wrote, "I don't care for it much anymore."

Well, I'd like to offer a similar experience. I am a room clerk in a first-class hotel. On our hotel registry is the question "FIRM?"

After one very attractive young woman had registered, I carefully read the form she had filled out. In the space following "FIRM?" she had written, "VERY!"

IT HAPPENED IN BOULDER, COLO.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. IN BEACON HILL: Tell your friend that giving birth to a child does not make a woman a "mother" in the truest sense of the word. But raising a motherless child into one's home (and heart) and taking that child with love, patience and understanding spells out the real meaning of motherhood.

Nicks-Cooper Vows Solemnized, Church

Miss Katrina Lee Nicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Cochran of Murray, was married to Kenneth Dale Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Cooper of Camden, Tenn., in an August ceremony at 6 p.m. in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church, Murray.

The ceremony was performed by candlelight with the Rev. Dr. Bill Whittaker officiating before a setting of green foliage arranged into the form of palm trees. Beyond the trees were two brass 15 branch spiral candelabra entwined with asparagus ferns and accented with candlelight spider mums. A unity candle was placed at the altar. Two brass tree candelabra, also with ferns and mums, completed the floral arrangement. The pews were decorated with hurricane lamps set in arrangements of asparagus fern.

Richard Jones, organist, and Mrs. Charles Henderson, cousin of the groom, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Henderson sang "Evergreen" and "One Hand, One Heart." The processional began with "Trumpet Voluntary" and the bride entered to the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin." After the wedding vows were exchanged and the unity candle was lighted, Mr. Jones played the "Wedding March" for the recessional.

Bride's Dress
The bride, escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown of ivory organza detailed with pearl encrusted chintilly lace. The molded bodice featured a deep v-shaped overlay of lace and a stand-up collar. More lace designed the full bishop sleeves.

The flared skirt had a hand-pearled pyramid of lace rising from the hemline to the center front. A narrow ruffle of lace extended around the hem to the full chapel length train.

Her finger tip tiered veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a matching pearl encrusted lace headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of sonia roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, and asparagus fern. Her only jewelry was a heart-shaped diamond pendant, gift of the groom.

The bride wore the something old, a lace handkerchief of her mothers; something new, pendant; something borrowed, sixpence in her shoe borrowed from her matron of honor; and something blue, the blue lace garter bought especially for her in Brussels, Belgium by Mrs. George Haneline and Mrs. Eddie Taylor on their recent trip to Europe.

Mrs. Sheri Wright, Paducah, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Denise Seltzer, Paducah, Miss Krista Kennedy, and Miss Renee Cochran, the latter two of Murray.

The attendants wore identical floor length gowns of silesta in a shade of apricot. The halter gowns featured v-necked bodices with skirts ending in tulip hemlines. A matching chiffon capelet, fingertip in the back, completed the ensemble. Each wore springs of baby's breath scattered in her hair.

They carried lighted apricot candles in brass candleholders. Sonia roses, stephanotis, miniature mums, and asparagus fern were entwined around the base of the candle and its holder.

Miss Jennifer Rinkes of Big Sandy, Tenn., niece of the groom, was the flower girl. Her floor length dress of candlelight chintilly lace featured an empire waist with tiers of ruffles falling to the floor. She wore a floral halo of roses and baby's breath and carried a basket of sonia rose petals.

The groom was attired in a candlelight tuxedo with a candlelight shirt and vest. His boutonniere was a sonia rose with stephanotis and baby's breath.

Franklin Cooper served his son as bestman. Groomsmen were Tony Goforth, Broadview Heights, Ohio, Tim Goforth, Camden, Tenn., both cousins of the groom, and Chad Cochran, brother of the bride. Ushers were Ralph Jackson, Frankfort, uncle of the bride, and Ken Bawcum, Camden, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dale Cooper

They, along with the bride's father, were attired in candlelight tuxedos with dark brown pants. Groomsmen and ushers wore boutonnieres of sonia roses.

Jack Rinkes, Big Sandy, Tenn., nephew of the groom, served as an escort for the flower girl. He was attired identically to the groomsmen and ushers.

Miss Jane Rose, Louisville, kept the guest register. The table was covered with a candlelight satin cloth. A brass candleholder held a single burning apricot candle surrounded with sonia roses, stephanotis, and greenery.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cochran wore a formal gown of apricot chiffon. The sleeveless gown featured a v-necked bodice with a sunburst pleated skirt.

Mrs. Cooper, mother of the groom, chose to wear a floral printed formal gown in shades of blue and apricot. The high necked gown fell to the floor in three different tiers.

Both mothers had corsages of white cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Willie B. Jackson and Mrs. H. L. Cochran, both grandmothers of the bride, and Mrs. Zelma Thurmond, great grandmother of the bride, were presented corsages of white carnations.

Directing the wedding was Mrs. Earl Rinkes, Big Sandy, Tenn., sister of the groom.

Reception
Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Murray Woman's Club House with Mesdames George Haneline, Eddie Taylor, James T. Neathery, Hardy Pierceall, B. B. Hook, Steve Simmons, Mitch Ward, and Miss Debbie McCord as hostesses.

The serving table was covered with a candlelight satin cloth. Centering the table were two hurricane lamps surrounded by asparagus fern and greenery. Candlelight mums and baby's breath were placed throughout the greenery. Each corner of the table was adorned with small arrangements of mums and greenery.

The five-tiered candlelight wedding cake was decorated with apricot icing roses. The top layer was centered with an arrangement of mums, baby's breath, and greenery, coordinating with other floral arrangements on the table. An apricot fruit punch was served along with nuts and mints.

Apricot and candlelight satin rosebuds filled with rice and arranged in wicker baskets were distributed to the guests by Miss Jennifer Rinkes. Richard Jones played selections on the piano during the reception.

Following a wedding trip to Cayman Islands, the couple is making their home in Hallshire Estates, Camden, Tenn.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Kenneth Bawcum, Mrs. Willard Wood, Miss Cathie Travis, Randy Patton, Miss Tina Hardin, Mrs. LaVerne DeBruce, Matthew DeBruce,

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Goforth, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. James Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cochran, Don Palmer, Mrs. Odean Goforth, Miss Cindy Goforth, and Miss Lori Goforth, all of Camden, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goforth, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Jenkins, Mrs. Ray Carroll, Miss Julie Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Goforth, Misses Tonya and Tommy Goforth, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Davis, all of Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Akers, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Matheny, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Goforth, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rinkes, all of Big Sandy, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Goforth and Jason, Broadview Heights, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Wiser, New Johnsonville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Corley, Waverly, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Mark DeBruce, Hartsville, Tenn.; Mrs. Lura Mae Hall, Fulton; Mr. and Mrs. Veltman Jackson, Cottage Grove, Tenn.; Mrs. J. T. Neathery, White Plains; Miss Angee Ellis, Findlay, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henderson, Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. George Haneline, Bowling Green; and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Weatherford.

Rehearsal Dinner
The parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Cooper, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner held at Dakota Feed and Grain.

The tables were overlaid in white and decorated with wicker baskets holding arrangements of silk and dried flowers. Covers were laid for 45 guests including the wedding party and family members.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Beaton and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Burdett, close friends of the groom's family from Cleveland, Ohio.

The bridal couple presented gifts to their attendants. The bride, her mother, Mrs. Cochran, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Cooper, were presented corsages of red roses by the groom.

More Rapes Reported In Chicago Area

CHICAGO (AP) — The number of reported rapes in Chicago is 20 percent higher than last year, and police have more than doubled the full-time squad assigned to investigate the crimes.

Police statistics show that 950 women reported rapes through Aug. 15, a 20 percent increase over the same period in 1978. Police believe the increase is due to a greater reporting rate, rather than an increase in the number of incidents.

To deal with the increase, police have increased from 14 to 30 the number of officers in the homicide-sex division assigned full-time to investigate rapes.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Not a comparable situation

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you said that there was an increased tendency to develop atherosclerosis in men who have had a vasectomy. You said the sperm cells are not allowed to escape and remain in the body and are treated as foreign protein leading to the increased risk of hardening of the arteries.

Doesn't this same problem exist in single men like myself who for ethical reasons do not engage in sexual intercourse until marriage? Does it mean that I'm running the risk of developing atherosclerosis because I'm not engaging in sex?

DEAR READER — In my previous column I referred to some research studies that had been done which did show an increased tendency to atherosclerosis or at least to develop higher levels of cholesterol.

The animals that were used for this study were on a very high cholesterol diet and I'm not sure that this information can be directly transferred to man. However, it's significant enough to suggest that men who have had a vasectomy should be particularly careful in terms of their diet and body weight and exercise.

Specifically, such men should be sure to be on a relatively low-fat, low-cholesterol diet and avoid obesity and smoking cigarettes. I don't mind giving that advice because it's good for all men and if everybody did it, we'd have a significant decrease in heart attacks.

To give you a better idea of the factors that do increase your risk of heart attacks, I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-2, How To Measure Your Risk Of Heart Disease. Other readers who want this information can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Refraining from cigarette smoking could also prevent lung cancer, the leading cause of cancer deaths in men. If it were not for the increase in lung cancer, the deaths from cancer would actually be declining for each age group.

No, I don't think you can compare a vasectomy to your personal situation. There is no evidence that not having sex will lead to having heart disease. The simple truth is, as long as the exit for the sperm cells is not blocked, as occurs with a vasectomy, any build-up or accumulation of them will simply result in their migration to the prostate gland.

You may not realize that the sperm cells represent such a small portion of the male organism that you'd have trouble seeing their contribution with the naked eye. Almost everything else comes from the prostate gland and other secretory glands. The sperm cells formed in the normal male merely migrate up the vas deferens tube to the prostate gland.

So, from a scientific point of view, it doesn't make much difference what you choose to do about your sex life insofar as the risk of heart disease is concerned.

THE ACES® IRA G. CORN, JR.

"Before you give up hope, turn back and read the attacks that were made upon Lincoln."—Bruce Barton.

West refused to give up hope against today's seemingly impregnable game. He saw his only chance lay with the trump suit and he made a sterling play to beat the game.

One look at dummy told West that the future was bleak for his side. South had opened the bidding, and the high cards in view in West's hand and dummy left nothing at all for East.

And West was right. East had a near Yarborough, but his only honor card—the 10 of trumps—was destined to make West's day.

West cashed the king and queen of hearts and then the ace of diamonds. Next, he led the 10 of hearts. Declarer played low from dummy so as not to awaken a slumbering East, however, West's odd sequence of plays had made enough noise to awaken the dead.

Why had West cashed three quick tricks and carefully underled his ace of hearts? The obvious answer was to promote a trump trick. East ruffed the third heart with his spade 10, forcing South to overruff with the queen.

Now regardless of how declarer played the trumps, West's J-8-3 lay behind declarer's A-9-5-2 and West was bound to take a trump trick.

It doesn't pay to give up hope. Sometimes, the most

What About Us, Governor Carroll?

The announcement this week that Gov. Julian Carroll has come up with $12.6 million more than the 1978 General Assembly authorized for a project in downtown Louisville forces us to repeat our question of a few days ago:

Where is the $500,000 that was earmarked for furnishing the new student center at Murray State University?

We think it's fine, even commendable, that Carroll and the legislature support a Kentucky Arts Center to be located in Louisville. The legislature authorized $22.4 million for the construction and the governor has upped that figure to $35 million according to a copyrighted story in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

It seems to us that words are flowing from both sides of the bureaucratic mouths in Frankfort.

For Example:

State finance secretary Gordon Duke claims MSU's $500,000 was eliminated by the special session of the General Assembly.

Gov. Carroll, according to Murray State University president Dr. Constantine Curris, has not personally responded to letters and calls from MSU officials on the matter. The governor's press aide, Gary Auxier, has said that the governor agrees with Duke's assessment of the situation.

Area legislators as well as the Legislative Research Commission have denied that the General Assembly had anything to do with the loss of the $500,000.

If MSU's $500,000 was lost because the state is so poor, how can the governor come up with a means of obtaining over $12 million more than authorized for the Louisville project?

The administration blames the legislators in the MSU situation but they say "Not so!"

We don't know who's to blame. We do know that if the money — which was approved in the original plans for the over $8 million structure — isn't replaced in the very near future the building will be just that: an empty shell of a building with no furnishings or equipment, totally useless to the MSU community.

We have been told that a similar loss of funds has dismayed another regional Kentucky university comparable in size to MSU. We don't know the facts on that case but if university officials on each end of the state start screaming at Frankfort maybe they will be heard.

Surely someone in Frankfort knows what happened to MSU's $500,000. Don't they?

Agree Or Not

Candidates Agree On One Issue

FRANKFORT — At least there is one subject candidates Louie B. Nunn and John Young Brown agree upon in their quest for the governorship.

Both say Kentucky's workmen's compensation laws should be changed to reduce the cost to business, provide equitable compensation for injured workers, and create a favorable atmosphere for industry and business.

Kentucky's present law has been criticized by both industry and labor representatives. Both sides generally agree on two points. Both say the cost of insurance is too high for the amount of benefits paid to injured workers.

Many charge the high compensation costs drive industry from the state and discourage new industry from coming here. Thus Kentucky is falling behind adjoining states in its quest for new industry and more jobs for Kentuckians.

The special legislative committee on Workmen's Compensation Insurance has been studying the problem since the 1978 regular legislative session.

The big problem with the present law, according to Rep. Lloyd Clapp, D-Wingo, committee chairman, is the section pertaining to total partial disability. Clapp says this is responsible for 62.7 percent of the cost of workmen's compensation insurance in the state. Under this section and injured workman may be paid permanent partial disability payments for life, even though he returns to work and is earning the same or more pay than before his injury.

Industry representatives readily agree that an injured worker should have his medical bills paid and receive workmen's compensation benefits as long as he is physically unable to return to work.

Business and industry representatives want the workmen's compensative benefits tied to the loss of income for the injured worker. When the injured employee returns to work, the compensation benefits should cease if he receives as much as he did before he was injured. In the case where his income is less than his previous earnings, the difference should be made by insurance.

Present law limits a worker's benefits to 66 per cent of his average weekly wage. Business representatives claim the money is tax free and fairly represents his previous net earnings. However, there is a section that limits benefits to 60 per cent of the state average weekly wage. Many in business agree with labor this figure is too low and should be changed.

The maximum weekly benefits, under present law, is $121.00 per week. With an eye on inflation, the legislative committee is saying there must be HEARTLINE: I am curious. I was married to my first husband for 21 years. He owned his own business and paid Social Security taxes during this period. His income was in the neighborhood of $40 to $50,000 a year during the latter part of this period. He remarried and gave up his U.S. citizenship. A process whereby he lived in Canada for 7 years. He just recently finished the 7 years.

I remarried a U.S. citizen in 1967 and his income ranges in the $12,000-a-year bracket, and this job is also Social Security covered. I have contributed to Social Security since 1937, and I am presently working full-time. My question is, when I choose to file for Social Security, can I collect anything on my first husband's Social Security benefits? — E.M.

First of all, if you remarried before the age of 60, you would not be entitled to benefits on your first husband's account. If you remarried after the age of 60, to qualify for his benefits, he would first have to be drawing benefits on his own account. After he is drawing his own benefits, and after you have attained age 62, then you would be eligible for benefits. However, if you did remarry before the age of 60, and if your present marriage should end in either divorce or death, then you would be eligible for benefits on your first husband's account if you do not marry again before the age of 60.

HEARTLINE: My wife developed a respiratory problem and our doctor suggested that we convert our home to central air conditioning. We did this. Our doctor's receptionist told us that Medicare would help cover the cost of air conditioning if it was medically necessary. We sent a claim to Medicare in early June. After three months, we got a letter back saying Medicare would not help cover the cost of an air conditioning system. A friend of ours says that Medicare helped cover the cost of their window air conditioner. Will Medicare only cover window air conditioners and not a central air system? — O.Y.

Medicare will not, under any conditions whatsoever, cover, or help cover the costs of any type of air conditioner, whether it be central air or window air conditioners. Your doctor's receptionist was wrong and if a friend collected for an air conditioner, it was a mistake.

HEARTLINE: They keep raising my Medicare premiums so often I can't keep up with it. How much are they supposed to be deducting from my Social Security check each month for Medicare? — T.R.

You now have the amount of $8.70 per month deducted from your Social Security check for medical insurance (Part "B") under the Medicare program.

Heartline has available a recently revised issue of Heartline's Guide to Medicare. To order, send $1.75 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, 114 East Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381.

The Story Of Calloway County 1822-1976

By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

In a special edition of the Murray Ledger, sponsored by the Methodist Church women in a fund raising event, details of the organization of the Calloway County United Daughters of the Confederacy were published. The group organized May 4, 1904, in the home of Mrs. Effie Gatlin, honoring Capt. J. N. Williams, commander of H. B. Lyon Camp, U. C. A., for the title of the chapter. Capt. Williams lost an arm in the Battle of Gettysburg. Among the outstanding accomplishments of the U. D. C. organization were the erection of Lee's Monument on court square, sponsoring the purchase of the Robert E. Lee home as a national shrine, and bestowing 85 Crosses of Honor on surviving Confederate veterans in Calloway.

Other congregations of note for the year included the Woodmen of the World uniformed Wells Encampment held at the Fair Grounds with more than 300 members in attendance, representing 30,000 members in Tennessee and Kentucky. (The W. O. W. was first organized in the county in 1900.) Drill teams were resplendent in special uniforms with thousands of people attending to witness the maneuvers of various camps in drill formations, flashing wooden axes, vying for top honors in the camp contest. The five day affair honored Rainey T. Wells, ranking national official, by subscribing his name to the event.

A lesser attraction but of national interest was the encampment of the Seventh Day Adventists at the Hazel Industrial Academy campus north of Hazel July 22 to Aug. 2. Tents were spread under giant campus oaks to accommodate the 200 or more participants, the third such meeting in the nation. The academy was directed by Prof. and Mrs. A. N. Atterberry for four years.

Another attraction of the 1915 year was the second appearance of Redpath Chautauqua in the summer season. The city council levied a $125 privilege tax to the consternation of the Murray Ledger editor who commented the city fathers would next levy a tax on missionary societies. Despite the claims, the tent event scarcely paid expenses for the week's show run. Calloway County Fair held a four day meeting Oct. 6, 7, 8, 9, with four races held daily. Other fair attractions included brass band music, midway attractions, floral hall and Confederates Day. At the conclusion, sponsors declared the fair was the greatest yet, but history better records the fair and the chautauqua had run their courses and were rapidly withering on the vine from lack of attendance-obvious fruits of the condemnation heaped upon them by the militant pastor, the Rev. H. Boyce Taylor.

Dade County Residents Reject Chance To Wipe Out County Property Taxes

By RICK SPRATLING
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — The residents of Dade County, Fla., have voted down a chance to wipe out virtually all their county property taxes, but a leader of the tax revolt movement says the fight to put a lid on government spending isn't over.

"I think our next move would be something like a limit on budgets or a limit on appropriations," said Al Hanson, a key supporter of the referendum defeated in a special election Tuesday.

The final count, with all voting precincts reporting, showed 165,140 votes against the tax cut and 89,200 in favor of it. About 37 percent of the county's 715,000 registered voters turned out, fewer than expected after months of emotional campaign rhetoric.

The referendum would have cut an average homeowner's bill for countywide services from $300 to 16 cents.

Tax rebel Harry L. Wilson, whose Dade Tax Revolt Committee pushed for passage, saw victory in defeat.

"With about 40 percent of the people voting for what they were told was a tax wipeout, we have a strong protest against runaway taxation," he said in a statement.

Flawed by botched wording that boosted the proposed tax cut from 50 percent to 99.5 percent, Wilson's referendum had united the Miami area's civic and business community in opposition.

The one-sided defeat suggested that even hard-pressed taxpayers weren't willing to risk what officials called catastrophic breakdowns in life-and-death services.

Based on the total of taxes billed to an average homeowner, Wilson's proposal would have meant a savings of 25 percent to 43 percent, since many taxes for city functions, bond payment, libraries and flood control would have remained intact.

But County Manager Merrett Stierheim had warned of cuts in government that would jolt lifestyles from the austere retirement centers of Miami Beach to the lavish Spanish villas of Coral Gables.

He said the $200 million lost through the referendum would have eliminated most of the "real operating budget" for the services that touch people daily.

But even though the tax slash was defeated, Stierheim said it carried a message for government.

"I think we have a job to do — be austere and cut back," he said. "It doesn't mean we don't have problems. It's been a painful election. There's a message for all of us."

Already, Stierheim has outlined a county budget that would reduce property taxes 5 1/2 percent for the coming fiscal year.

Wilson, a 58-year-old retired businessman, called himself "just a poor taxpayer" who wanted a 50 percent rollback in taxes. Somehow, he ended up with petition language that used "mills" instead of "dollars" — increasing the cut to 99.5 percent.

The goof wasn't discovered until 15,000 petition signatures were obtained to place the issue on the ballot. When courts refused to alter the wording, Wilson went ahead with a campaign for the deeper cut.

Board's Split Decision Shows Some Dissension

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board's split decision to boost its bank lending rate to 11 percent suggests dissension over how to battle inflation and could endanger the dollar's value, some economists say.

In an almost unprecedented 4-3 vote, the board agreed Tuesday to raise the discount rate from 10.5 percent. The discount rate is the interest member banks are charged when borrowing from the federal government. The increase should continue to drive up borrowing costs for businesses and consumers, including homeowners.

Such rate rises are designed in part to bolster the dollar's value in the face of persistent inflation and to stem excessive borrowing.

But the lack of unanimity among board members could create the opposite effect, said Lawrence Kudlow, chief economist of Bear, Stearns and Co.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House Banking Committee, called the split vote "intriguing."

"For the first time, Fed members are wondering out loud whether it really makes sense to throw men and women out of work and businesses into bankruptcy" to tighten credit and reduce borrowing, he said.

While higher interest rates do discourage borrowing, and thus can dampen inflation by slowing the growth of the money supply, it also can worsen the nation's recession.

That recession has been increasingly evident as industrial output last month declined 1.1 percent, inventories increased 1.9 percent, retail sales remained sluggish, factory wages slipped and unemployment rose from 5.7 percent to 6 percent.

But the board's majority apparently believed such a threat was not as serious as excessive borrowing.

In recent weeks, borrowing activity has remained intense despite rising short-term interest rates, including the prime rate banks charge their best customers.

In fact, the discount rate has become a bargain when compared with other short-term interest rates.

The prime rate, for example, has soared to 13 percent, and some analysts suspect it may reach 13.25 percent by week's end. On Monday, the Treasury's 26-week bills reached a record high of 10.315 percent.

The board has assumed a very tight money policy since Paul Volker assumed the chairmanship early last month, succeeding G. William Miller, who became treasury secretary.

Last fall, the discount rate was as low as 8.5 percent. It was raised an entire percentage point in November as part of President Carter's $30 billion dollar rescue plan. It reached 10 percent this July.

Kudlow said the board must now demonstrate to the money markets that it will not be hesitant in approaching the inflation battle.

He suggested that one "confidence-building measure" would be to raise the rate member banks charge each other for loans to meet cashflow needs — the federal funds rate.

Voting for the discount rate rise were Volker, Henry Wallich, Philip Coldwell and Frederick Schultz. Voting against it were Charles Partee, Nancy Teeters and Emmett Rice.

Regional Commission Approves Two Grants For Beattyville

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved two grants totaling $439,500 to the city of Beattyville for extension of the city's water system.

The ARC has also granted $164,400 to the Rockcastle County Industrial Authority in Mt. Vernon for a water system.

The Bear Tract Water Extension in Lee County will consist of a 200,000-gallon water storage tank, pump station, water lines and water mains.

State Development Secretary William Short said the extension will provide 1,000 persons and three commercial industries with an adequate and safe water supply and also furnish water to a potential 100-acre industrial park.

Short said the Rockcastle County grant will be used for a 300,000 gallon water storage tank, water mains and an internal access road for the industrial park.

Office Issues Opinion

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state attorney general's office has issued an opinion stating that Bible readings in public schools during regular hours are unconstitutional.

Acting Deputy Attorney General Robert Chenoweth issued the opinion Tuesday at the request of the Campbell County school district, where the practice of Bible readings was recently questioned.

School Superintendent Russell Below, who ordered the practice temporarily halted Sept. 5, said the school board is scheduled to meet Friday to decide whether to discontinue the practice permanently.

In his statement, Chenoweth said Kentucky public schools "are faced with a perturbing problem" because state law still requires the reading of the Bible.

The law states: "The teacher in charge shall read or cause to be read a portion of the Bible daily."

Until 1978, failure to follow that law could result in revocation of a teacher's certificate. That year, the Legislature repealed the penalty provision but failed to repeal the law requiring Bible reading, Chenoweth said.

Chenoweth referred in his statement to similar opinions issued in 1963 and 1964 as being "so unquestionably correct" that it would be "very unwise" for school districts to continue Bible readings.

Continuing the practice could leave school officials open to suits by students who contend their constitutional rights have been violated, Chenoweth's opinion said.

Attorney general's opinions are advisory and do not have the force of law.

Current Gold Rush Has Dealers Buyers Coming From Everywhere

By MARK POTTS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In the current gold rush that has sent prices soaring to more than $375 an ounce, buyers seem to be coming from everywhere — the United States, Europe, the Arabs, Japan and some Martians," one gold dealer says.

Vincent Tese, a partner in James Sinclair & Co. a New York gold advisory service, was exaggerating only a little. Gold's $24.25-an-ounce price increase Tuesday was a record as was a closing price of $376 in New York.

George Perola, manager of the coin and metal division of Deak Perera, a major coin dealer, described business as "very hectic."

Many small investors are entering the market for the first time, he said, trying to get a piece of the gold-boom action.

"We can tell that from the size of the orders and the kinds of the questions they ask," he said.

Gold cost $35 an ounce 12 years ago — when the dollar was tied to its value and before Americans were allowed to buy it. Its price has risen $160 in the last year — $50 in the last two weeks.

It closed in Zurich, Switzerland, Europe's largest bullion market, at $373.50 an ounce on Tuesday — up $20.50 from Monday. In London, Europe's other major market, it closed at $372, up $18.50, after settling back from a record $376.25 during the day.

September gold futures on New York's Commodity Exchange rose $22.90 to $382 an ounce.

One of the beneficiaries of the latest gold rush was the U.S. government. It had coincidentally scheduled an auction of 750,000 ounces of its gold reserves for Tuesday, and was able to sell the gold for an average price of $377.78 an ounce — for a total of $283.3 million. When the government last auctioned gold in August, the metal averaged $301.08 an ounce.

Perola said the $100 Canadian mapleleaf has been extremely popular with small investors since the coin was issued two weeks ago, though dealers take a hefty commission on the mapleleaf than on other coins because it is seen as a collectors' item.

For that reason, Deak Perera tries to steer investors from the gold-mapleleaf to other coins, like the South African kruggerand, which don't command such a premium.

"People are calling us and asking, 'What gold coin should we buy?'" Perola said. "We're telling them: buy the kruggerand or the Austrian 100 kroner or the Mexican 50 peso."

The gold boom has been attributed by experts to fears about the world economy. Many investors turn to gold as a safe investment when they feel that their currency holdings or investments will be hurt by adverse economic conditions. Concern about world inflation, the U.S. recession and the possibility of rising oil prices are among the economic worries listed by analysts as boosting gold.

Many analysts say the gold rush can't last forever, and predict the steep climb in gold prices could result in an equally steep drop.

Board Sets Tax Rate

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The Fayette County Board of Education has voted to set a tax rate that would produce revenue in excess of the four percent cap set by the Kentucky Legislature this year.

The board Monday voted 4-1 to levy a property tax of 44.6 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, lower than last year's rate of 54.5 cents.

However, many tax bills probably will be higher this year because of a county-wide property reassessment that increased property values here an average of more than 40 percent.

A 1979 law says that a local taxing district may set a tax rate, after a public hearing, to bring in no more than a four percent increase in revenue on property already on the tax rolls. If local taxing authorities — such as the school board — set a higher rate, the law allows taxpayers to seek a rollback.

They must submit a petition with signatures of 10 percent of the voters in the last presidential election in order to call a referendum election. If a majority did not support the proposed tax rate, then it would be rolled back — in this case, by four cents, to 40.6 cents per $100 valuation.

School officials have said the $1.6 million produced by the 4 cents additional tax rate would be used to restore some program cuts and to raise employee salaries. The local school board scheduled a public hearing on the proposed rate for 7 p.m. Oct. 3 at 701 E. Main St.

People are not the only ones to wear casts, this kitten, Little Bit, has no problems getting around with his. The cast is supposed to come off in a day or two.

Robbins' Nine Catches A First

Florida Native
Second In OVC

The last time Anthony Robbins caught nine passes in one game was, well, never. "I think I had seven in high school," Robbins says. "But nine. That's a first."

He reached that figure last Saturday, hauling in nine airdrops during Murray State's 19-11 loss to defense-oriented Southeastern Louisiana at Roy Stewart Stadium. And his 11 catches in two games ranks him in a tie for first with Western Kentucky's Eddie Preston for leading receiver honors in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Tony Wilson

Ledger & Times
Sports Editor

Both officials and Southeastern Louisiana players alike saw Anthony Robbins catch plenty of passes - nine, to be exact - during Murray State's 19-11 loss Saturday.

Robbins could well have had 10 catches, since one popped from his grasp after he was belted by a Southeastern Louisiana defender. But the native of Eddison, Fla., High School says getting hit by an opponent is no worse than being hit by his former junior college and now Murray State teammates.

"Oh, man. Terry Love and Paul Little can put a hit on you," says Robbins, who transferred, along with Love and Little, from College of the Canyons Junior College in Los Angeles.

Robbins' nine catches netted 68 yards, which means most of them were for relatively short yardage that left him in heavy traffic. And THAT means should Robbins leap high for a pass, his feet could be cut from under him and he could land in a position that most don't daydream about.

"I just try to block that part of the game out of my mind," says Robbins. "You can't help but think about it, but if you let it get to you, it's easy to drop the pass."

Robbins' older brother, Wesley, is currently a member of the New York Yankees Class AA baseball team, which is based in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. And Anthony Robbins says the baseball bug got to him for a while, too.

"I was hitting about .280 in high school and I think I had seven home runs," he said. "But later, I knew my future was in football."

So he traveled about 2,700 miles to College of the Canyons, where he caught 17 passes his freshman season and 15 the following year. Then it was halfway back across the United States to Murray. Why all the distance between schools?

"Coming to Murray involved a lot of the things that going to junior college did," Robbins said. "I talked to coach Gottfried, and what he said to me really impressed me. He seemed to be a very honest man."

A glance at the latest Ohio Valley Conference statistics offers a stark contrast to last season when checking those of Murray State.

The Racers ranked near the bottom of the defensive stats last year, but they are currently first in defense against the run (35.8 yards a game), seventh against the pass (203.3) and third overall (239.0 total offense allowed).

On the other hand, Murray, which averaged 341.2 yards a game last season in total offense, currently ranks only fifth among conference teams in that department, churning out 287 yards a contest.

The biggest difference has been in rushing: 129.0 yards a game thus far this year, as compared to 203.3 a contest in 1978.

Stiffest Compensation Award In NBA History Marks Walton Dealing

By the Associated Press
SAN DIEGO — "I have this empty feeling in my stomach," said Bill Walton, rocked by the stiffest compensation award in pro sports history.

"I don't think it was fair," Walton said after San Diego Clipper teammates Kermit Washington, Kevin Kunnert, Randy Smith and a 1980 first-round draft pick were awarded to the Portland Trail Blazers Tuesday.

Ending a two-month tug-of-war, National Basketball Association Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien ruled that Washington, one of the league's prized power forwards, and Kunnert, a 7-foot reserve center, must go to Portland as payment for the loss of Walton.

The 6-foot-11, All-Pro center played out his option with the Trail Blazers and signed with the Clippers May 12, reportedly for the largest sports salary ever — a five-year contract calling for $900,000 per year.

If the year-old Clippers choose to keep Smith, a starting guard who averaged 18 points per game last year, they must pay Portland $350,000 and their 1982 first-round draft choice.

"It's a real setback," said Walton. "We were very close to a championship team. Indirectly, I'm somewhat responsible for that."

Walton's "durability" was the central question, O'Brien said. He said he took into account that Walton's contract "reflects a clear recognition by both San Diego and Walton that his past medical history created legitimate concerns about his ability to fully perform in the future."

After signing as the NBA's top draft choice of 1974, Walton, 26, was sidelined for half of the Trail Blazers' games. He sat out all of the 1977-78 season with a stress fracture in his foot, a year after winning MVP honors for leading Portland to the NBA championship.

"If Walton in his first five years had proven as durable as (Wilt) Chamberlain, (Bill) Russell and (Kareem) Abdul Jabbar, it would be virtually impossible to calculate his value or to compensate Portland for his loss," said O'Brien, after reviewing written submissions and testimony from the two clubs.

O'Brien noted that Walton's contract with the Clippers included "unique terms for salary reductions in the event he is unable to play a specified number of games."

"Therefore," ruled O'Brien, "I do not agree with Portland's arguments that San Diego's contractual agreement to Walton demonstrates that his 'durability' is no longer a risk and that his value must be judged solely on the basis of his skills."

Washington is 28, Kunnert 27 and Smith 30. Washington, in his sixth pro season, nearly surpassed his career high last year when he averaged 11.3 points per game. He led the club in rebounding with a 9.8 average.

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay said the addition of Washington and Kunnert "really solidifies our club."

The Clippers have until 5 p.m., EDT Thursday to decide whether they will keep Smith or send Portland the $350,000.

Tech's Smith Named Top Rookie

By the Associated Press
NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Tennessee Tech running back Sam Smith ground out 90 yards and two touchdowns on 15 carries against Cameron University to be selected Ohio Valley Conference Rookie of the Week.

Smith, a 6-foot-1, 195-pounder from New Orleans, powered the Golden Eagles to a 21-6 win last Saturday.

Receiving OVC mention was Morehead State's Bill Vogt, who recorded six solo tackles and broke up four passes as the Eagles downed Kentucky State 14-7.

Jackson Drama May Soon End

By WILL GRIMSLEY,
AP Special Correspondent
As the world turns in baseball's most intriguing real life drama — the New York Yankees' version of "Days of Our Lives" — questions whet the appetite, just as in an afternoon soap opera on TV.

Is the honeymoon over between owner George Steinbrenner and his volatile super star, Reggie Jackson? Will Reggie be tossed out of the house like some mustachioed villain at the insistence of his hated rival for the owner's favor, Manager Billy Martin?

When did the honeymoon began to fray at the seams? Who done Reggie in? Himself or some sinister outside forces? Will he find happiness elsewhere?

Tune in tomorrow and see. When Reggie, shortly after signing a five-year, $2.9 million contract with the Yankees, told a magazine writer that he — not Captain Thurman Munson, not anybody else — was "the stick that stirs the drink," he wasn't kidding.

Reggie never lets the waters get calm. If he isn't leading a September surge for the pennant, blasting three home runs to clinch a World Series or provoking a rain of "Reggie!" bars from the stands, he is feuding with his manager or saying uncomplimentary things about his boss.

"Controversy follows me around like a black cat," Jackson once said sorrowfully.

Steinbrenner insisted it wasn't so. He didn't even know about the request, he said. He intimidated Reggie might be up to some old tricks — using other people to serve his own purposes.

13 Teams To Compete In MSU Golf Invitational

Murray State will host 13 collegiate teams from across the Midwest when the 15th annual Murray State Invitational golf tournament begins Friday at the Murray Country Club.

Fifty-four holes of medal play are scheduled, with 36 set for Friday and the remaining 18 for Saturday. Defending champion Memphis State, 1979 Ohio Valley Conference Austin Peay, Eastern Kentucky and Southern Illinois are listed as favorites for the competition.

Others teams in the field include Indiana State, Kentucky, Louisville, Middle Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Western Kentucky, Evansville and two Murray State squads.

Five of the top 10 individuals from last year's tournament return, including medalist Lee Cheairs of Memphis State, who shot an eight-under-par 208; Eastern's Dave Gaer and Doug Brehme; Murray's Tom Fischer and Austin Peay's Richard Smith.

The Racers have won four of the events (1966, '70, '71, '74), and Middle Tennessee also owns four titles.

Murray State's blue team will consist of John Wedell of Bensenville, Ill.; Lynn Sullivan of Murray; Jon Stanley of Mayfield; Bill Berg of Sarasota, Fla.; and Tom Fischer of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

The gold team will include Peter Norton of Brockton, Mass.; Jeff Zwitter of West Allis, Wis.; Brad Boyd of Hendersonville, Ky.; Kenny Hunt of Paducah and David Mills of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Racer Runners To Face Western Ky. Saturday

The "toughest competition prior to the NCAA regionals," says Murray State coach Bill Cornell, await his squad when the Racers square off against Ohio Valley Conference rival Western Kentucky in a men's dual cross country meet Saturday in Bowling Green.

"This should give us some indication of where we stand for the OVC competition," said Cornell. "Western is solid among its five people, and they expect to be among the top 10 nationally this year."

The Hilltoppers, the defending conference champions, edged the Racers 27-29 at Murray last year and return Dave Murphy, Jim Groves, Tim Brooks, Larry Cuzzort and Ron Becht.

Murray has finished first in both of its meets this year as the Racers took top honors among the five-team field in the Westport Cross Country Carnival. Last week, they downed Arkansas State 22-33.

A pair of freshmen, Barty Attwell and Gary Ribbons, along with junior Jerry Odlin and senior Richard Charleston, will head Murray's entry Saturday. Dave Rafferty and Pat Chimes are also included in the field for the Racers.

Following Saturday's meet, Murray will host the Kentucky Intercollegiate Championship Sept. 29.

Narrow Losses Murray, Calloway Drop Tight Season-Opening Grid Contests

Both Calloway and Murray middle schools suffered narrow defeats in season-opening football games yesterday.

At Benton, Murray Middle dropped a double-overtime 18-12 decision, while at Crittenden County, Calloway fell 6-0.

Crittenden 6, Calloway 0
Even on Crittenden's winning touchdown play, Calloway coach Bill Miller felt the officials played a big part.

"One of our guys was clipped, and that's how they scored," Miller said of the winners' 50-yard touchdown burst. That came in the third quarter after a scoreless first half.

The Lakers had a chance to tie when they managed a first-and-goal situation at the Crittenden four-yard line with three minutes left in the game, but they were unable to score.

Miller cited outstanding play from running backs

Richard Dowdy and Randall Duncan, and good defensive play from Joe Pritchett, Greg Garland and Mark Duncan.

In the seventh-grade game, Crittenden used a 15-yard scoring run the first half and a 65-yard burst in the second to blank the Lakers 12-0.

Benton 18, Murray 12
Andy Parks ran 25 yards for a touchdown to put Murray Middle ahead 6-0 in the first period, but Benton finally tied the score in the fourth period on a 30-yard pass play with just 90 seconds remaining.

Both teams scored in the first overtime, including Tim Burchfield's one-yard run.

But in the second extra period, Benton held the Tigers, then scored the winning touchdown on a pass play.

The Murray coaches commended the play of Burchfield, Chris Farmer, Chris Young, Mark Boggess and Wade Smith.

NCAA Rejects Playoff Proposal

Bowls Are Only Game In Town

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

A major college postseason football playoff seems to be a dead issue...for now.

But Frank Broyles, Arkansas' athletic director and former football coach, still says such a playoff is "inevitable."

Broyles was one of an outspoken minority whose playoff proposal was beaten down by the bowls.

"We didn't foresee this much organized opposition. We didn't foresee the bowls taking such a strong stand, banding together and rallying support," he says. "It was their asserted opinion that the bowls would be ruined if we had even a four-team playoff."

convinced many coaches that the structure we have now is better than a playoff. They cite the financial aspects, the good times, no pressure...things like that.

"Maybe our feeling supporting a playoff is ahead of its time, like solar energy. But it's inevitable that we need a playoff, not for the 20 or 25 schools who will succeed with soccer or anything else. But what about the other schools who are in financial straits? The economic factor will be felt down the line."

"For a playoff to happen now we need something dramatic, but I don't know what. The public wants it. The public is probably for it 98 percent and I think their influence will be felt down the line."

peculiar attitudes toward the media, he became known as "Little Woody." Now we have Wake Forest's John Mackovic, who once coached under Schembechler as a graduate assistant at Miami of Ohio, hails from Schembechler's hometown of Barberton, Ohio, and may become known as "Little Bo."

Ordinarily one of the most cordial and pleasant members of the coaching fraternity, Mackovic blew his cork at the Georgia media following Wake Forest's stunning 22-21 upset of the University of Georgia.

"Some magazine picked us as one of the 20 worst teams in the country and we were in that Los Angeles guy's Bottom Ten," Mackovic said. "And the first thing when we got to Athens, some guy wanted to know if I could explain why Georgia was so worried about us."

"When you come in as a three-or four-touchdown underdog people make up cute things to say. I don't mind that. But it was too much when somebody wrote that Dooley's Bulldogs would make mincemeat out of Mackovic's Meatballs. No 18-year-old deserves to be called a meatball. I've never read more disgusting stuff in my life."

Dooley's Bulldogs turned out to be the cream puffs. Wake Forest erupted for 287 yards on the ground and 283 through the air in pulling off one of the season's major upsets.

And when it was over, Mackovic said he would talk to the North Carolina media "but the Georgia press could leave our lockerroom, as far as I was concerned." Some did, some didn't, but it appears that the Demon Deacons may be more demon than deacon, for a change.

Canadian Football League before coming to Harvard but he hadn't been associated with the NFL since playing with the Philadelphia Eagles in the early 1950s. Until this summer, that is.

Restic, whose wild and crazy Multiflex offense has sent opposing coaches into shock, spent five weeks, working with the Los Angeles Rams' quarterbacks.

"They were talking about doing some things with motion and shifting," says Restic, who has been known to put his quarterback in motion, on occasion.

Restic found that the pros are "a different world. One thing that stands out is the intensity of the people. Football is still football, but that's where they're separated. The way they worked and the help they looked for... they really wanted to improve. You always get the impression that pros don't work hard and just go through the motions, but that's not true."

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

The NCAA's Extra Events Committee, of which Broyles is a member and former chairman, had recommended that such a playoff proposal be brought before next January's NCAA convention. But the Division I Steering Committee recommended to the all-powerful NCAA Council that the issue not even come up for a vote. The Council went along with that suggestion.

"It's somewhat of a dead issue at this particular time," says Dave Strack, athletic director at the University of Arizona and current chairman of the Extra Events Committee. "Who can tell what the future might hold, but we've decided it would be beating a dead horse to pursue it as a committee at this time."

"The bowls feel they have served college football very well and they feel they're the best thing for college football," says Broyles. "They've

Angels Gain With 6-3 Victory Over Royals; Minnesota Loses

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Jim Fregosi doesn't think he has anything to be nervous about. With a few more performances like the one his California Angels turned in Tuesday night, whatever worries Fregosi have should disappear.

After losing five of their last six and being bombed 16-4 in the opener of the four-game series with Kansas City Monday night, dropping their American League West lead to two games over the Royals, the Angels seemed ripe for a fall. Instead they erupted for four runs in the first inning off Royals starter Rich Gale, who lasted all of 24 pitches, and held on for a 6-4 victory. With Minnesota losing 1-0 in 10 innings to Chicago and dropping four games back, it was a profitable night for Fregosi.

stole second and came all the way around when Brian Downing's throw trying to nail him on the steal deflected into shallow right field off Anderson's glove.

The Baltimore Orioles didn't get what they needed Tuesday, dropping a 2-1 decision to Detroit and leaving their magic number at three. Milwaukee, the only team still with a chance to catch Baltimore, nipped Seattle 7-6. Boston beat Toronto 8-3, Cleveland mauled New York 16-3 and Texas defeated Oakland 9-5.

White Sox 1, Twins 0 — Ken Kravec pitched seven innings of no-hit ball and wound up with a three-hitter. The lone run scored when Kevin Bell, Mike Squires and Thad Bosley hit consecutive singles with none out in the 10th for Chicago.

Ron Jackson's leadoff double in the eighth broke up Kravec's no-hit bid.

Tigers 2, Orioles 1 — Dan Petry and Aurelio Lopez combined on a four-hitter and Ron LeFlore had a solo homer and an RBI grounder for the Detroit runs. Doug DeCinces homered for Baltimore.

Brewers 7, Mariners 6 — Paul Molitor's single scored Sixto Lezcano, who had doubled, for the Brewers' decisive run in the eighth. Milwaukee overcame a 6-2 Seattle lead built mostly with a five-run second that included Bruce Bochte's two-run homer. Jim Gantner had a two-run shot for Milwaukee.

Red Sox 8, Blue Jays 3 — Mike Torrez, who broke a personal three-game losing slide, threw a seven-hitter and Dwight Evans contributed a home run for the Red Sox.

Indians 16, Yankees 3 — Former Yankee Cliff Johnson had two homers and five RBI and Toby Harrah slammed a pair of home runs and four RBI in a 16-hit attack. Ted Cox added a solo shot for Cleveland and Oscar Gamble homered for the Yankees, who lost their fifth game in a row.

Rangers 9, A's 5 — Al Oliver had four hits and knocked in three runs, raising his batting average to .330 in a game played before only 750 fans, the second smallest crowd at Oakland this season. A game with Seattle on April 17 drew 653.

cracked an RBI single to lead Philadelphia to its 13th victory in 18 games and pull the Phillies within a game of the third-place Cardinals in the East.

Meanwhile, Pete Rose extended his hitting streak to 15 games and pulled within nine hits of a major league record 10th consecutive 200-hit season.

Dodgers 6, Braves 1 — Jerry Reuss pitched a four-hitter and Steve Garvey reached the 100-RBI plateau for the third consecutive seasons as Los Angeles beat Atlanta.

Cubs 2-2, Mets 0-1 — Dave Kingman drove in the game-winning run in each game and Bruce Sutter picked up both saves in the Chicago's double-header sweep of New York. Kingman's two-run, third-inning single won the opener and his 11th-inning single delivered the winner in the nightcap — boosting Kingman's RBI total to a league-leading 110.

Sutter, meanwhile, had 37 saves — tying the NL record he shares with Clay Carroll of the 1972 Reds and Rollie Fingers of the 1978 Padres.

Waterlogged Night

Pirates Need Six Hours To Subdue Montreal; Reds Don't Lose Ground

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Willie Stargell and the rest of the Pittsburgh Pirates put a damper on the evening for the Montreal Expos.

On a night when swimsuits and scuba gear might have made more sense than the standard baseball garb, the Pirates spent six waterlogged hours and 14 minutes beating the Expos 5-3 in 11 innings.

In other words, it rained a little bit while the teams were struggling for the National League East Division lead. The first delay halted action for just five minutes, but the second took a whopping two hours, 54 minutes, and the sixth inning didn't begin until midnight, local time.

Shortly thereafter, the Expos tied it 3-3 on an RBI single by Larry Parrish in the sixth. The Pirates, who hadn't scored since the first, didn't undo the tie until Stargell came to the plate with Mike Easler on first in the 11th.

Meanwhile, the Cincinnati Reds dropped a 3-1 decision to the San Francisco Giants but maintained their 1 1/2-game West Division lead over Houston because the Astros were beaten 4-0 by the San Diego Padres.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

In the other NL games, the Philadelphia Phillies topped the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 in 10 innings, the Los Angeles Dodgers bested the Atlanta Braves 6-1, and the Chicago Cubs swept a two-night double-header from the New York Mets by 2-0 and 2-1 scores with the nightcap going 11 innings.

Giants 3, Reds 1 — Run-scoring singles by Darrell Evans, Mike Ivie and Johnnie LeMaster carried the Giants to their 12th victory over the Reds in 18 meetings this season. "We didn't lose any ground, so we've got to be happy," said Cincinnati Manager John McNamara.

Padres 4, Astros 0 — Manager Bill Virdon was singing the same song after his Astros were held to six singles by Eric Rasmussen. The Astros have three games remaining against Cincinnati.

Phillies 5, Cardinals 3 — Pinch-hitter Greg Gross delivered a 10th-inning sacrifice fly to score Manny Trillo, then Garry Maddox

Air Force Investigates Claims That Hospital Turned Boy Away

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — Air Force officials are investigating allegations that a 2-year-old boy who died at a local hospital had been turned away from a military hospital four hours earlier because his mother couldn't produce her ID card.

The embittered parents, Airman Dan Greiger and his wife Susanna, allege an airman on duty at the Malmstrom Air Force Base hospital turned the child away before he died Saturday in a civilian hospital.

Although the parents concede Danny may have died of meningitis anyway, they charge the actions of the airman under other circumstances could have cost a life.

The parents said an internal investigation has already begun and say they will ask for an additional probe by the Air Force inspector general's office.

A base information officer, Lt. Carol Northrup, confirmed Tuesday that officials were looking into the matter. She declined further comment. The airman has not been identified.

Ali Had Duo Objectives On His Return To Alma Mater

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Retired heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali had two objectives when he returned to his alma mater — promoting his upcoming television movie and campaigning for Democrat John Y. Brown Jr.

Ali, accompanied by the gubernatorial candidate, spoke briefly Tuesday to several hundred Central High School students in a crowded courtyard.

"I want all my fans to vote for John Y. Brown Jr. because I believe he will be the greatest governor of all time. I wouldn't put my name and reputation on the line if I didn't believe that he was honest."

Brown and Ali stood on a platform surrounded by squealing fans seeking autographs while a camera crew shot footage for commercials. Earlier, Brown and Harvey Sloane, one of the candidates he defeated in the Democratic primary, filmed a commercial in front of the school.

"We took the summer months off," Brown said, "but now we're ready to pick up the momentum with commercials."

Brown's 16-year-old son, John Y. Brown III, who attends Central High School, was also in the audience.

Ali told the students, most of whom aren't old enough to vote, to get their parents and friends to vote for Brown. The two men have been friends for 15 years. Ali also asked them to watch his TV movie "The Freedom Fighter," which will air in October.

When Ali finished speaking, Brown said Ali was an example of what a good education can produce and emphasized his commitment to giving the students the "best education in America."

Although the speeches lasted only a few minutes, it took nearly 45 minutes for Brown and Ali to hug and kiss their way through the crowd and to sign autographs.

Ali has made several campaign appearances with Brown in Lexington and Louisville in the past two days.

Meanwhile, Brown released a position paper Tuesday calling for a strong consumer-protection program and pledging, among other things, adequate staff and money for consumer-related work by the attorney general's office.

"The money spent by consumers accounts for over two-thirds of all spending in Kentucky's economy," Brown said in a release. "As a creature of all the people, state government has a special responsibility to Kentuckians in their capacity as consumers."

Brown's seven-point consumer program included a pledge to determine what action must be taken to correct consumer problems "along with taking steps to further discover what those problems might be."

Brown also received the endorsement Tuesday of the Kentucky Legislative Board of the United Transportation Union.

Woman Keeps Grown Son 'Safe' In Fenced-In World

STINNETT, Ky. (AP) — Georgia Chandler keeps her 42-year-old son in a fenced-in world, believing he will be safer there.

"I don't want him out. He ain't got no business out," explained Mrs. Chandler, referring to Gerald Morgan. She said there are "mean boys around who would knock him in the head if they got the chance."

Morgan spends most of his time behind a padlocked door and a fenced-in porch.

He can sit on a tree stump on the porch behind the floor-to-roof fencing. Or he can walk into his small room containing a radio, a table and an electric clock. There is no running water and no toilet. He relieves himself in a bucket.

Most food is passed to him through a small hole in the door by Mrs. Chandler, who calls Gerald "my baby. I turn him out when I want to, when I get a notion."

Mrs. Chandler, who estimates her age at "about 81," is somewhat vague about the length of time that her son has been confined. At one point, she said it hasn't "been too long." Another time she said it lasted for only a month or two.

Neighbors and relatives, however, say Morgan has been confined for a much longer period, perhaps 10 years or more.

They said he is allowed outside periodically to go fishing or to visit the doctor or to help his mother with chores she cannot perform.

Morgan recently removed the locked door from its hinges and left the house. H.C. Farmer, Mrs. Chandler's half-brother, found him down by the river picking blackberries.

Farmer said his half-sister takes good care of Morgan and "I check on 'em every day and shave him and take him eats." "He doesn't want out," Farmer said. "He'd rather be in there, and I don't know any better way."

Relatives said Mrs. Chandler and her son receive government allotments totaling some $450 a month.

Ron Cutter, executive director of the Kentucky Association for Retarded Citizens, said "some action should have been taken so he could be unconfined or receive the treatment he needs so he doesn't have to be confined."

Agreeing with him was Gary Davis, area services manager for Kentucky River Community Care Inc., a local mental health agency that serves Leslie County.

Davis said he learned about the situation last week and made one visit to Mrs. Chandler's home. "It's just not tolerable," he said.

Larry Lyons, team leader in the Hyden office of the state Department for Human Resources' Bureau for Social Services, said he has known of the situation for about eight months. He said the office has been involved with Mrs. Chandler and her son for about three years.

Lyons said various local agencies previously recommended that Chandler remain at home.

Representatives of the various agencies are slated to meet today to discuss Mrs. Chandler and her son and possible alternatives.

Tornado Aims Fury At Heavily Populated Area On Houston's West Side

HOUSTON (AP) — A tornado aimed its scatter gun fury at an affluent, heavily populated residential area on Houston's west side, destroying 10 homes and damaging 40 others but causing only minor injuries and no deaths, authorities said.

"There was this terrific noise and all the windows blew out at one time," said Susan Whitworth, 27. "The front doors blew off their hinges and the brick living room wall was completely blown in."

The twister dipped down in the Country Village subdivision late Tuesday afternoon, wrecked a house on one block, then skipped to another area to continue its destruction.

There was no immediate estimate of damage to the approximately 50 homes in the stricken area off the Katy Freeway. But John Caswell, the Harris County assistant Civil Defense director, said 10 of the houses were destroyed.

He said about 20 families were left homeless by the twister, but found shelter with friends and relatives.

Another tornado touched down Tuesday in Brazoria County, south of Houston, causing $15,000 damage to a business office and slightly damaging several homes, a sheriff's department spokesman said.

A third tornado ripped roofs off of mobile homes, overturned a car and blew out windows and doors in several houses northwest of Houston in Harris County Tuesday afternoon.

There were no reports of injuries.

The twisters were spawned in clouds that soaked the Houston area with a day long rain that caused street flooding in some areas. Emergency vehicles en route to the scene also were hampered by the snarled rushhour traffic.

Police closed the area to all but residents Tuesday night in a security measure to prevent looting.

But for some residents, there was little left to guard.

"It only lasted a couple of minutes, but now everything is gone, all my china, all my furniture, all gone," said Nancy Weissler, 24, who had moved into her home three weeks ago.

Zamboria was charged with robbing a branch of the Citizens Fidelity Bank in Louisville last May 14 after he and a companion escaped from the Hardin County jail at Elizabethtown.

He also was charged with kidnapping a Jeffersonville, Ind., man the same day.

Zamboria was captured in early July in Ohio.

Federal Judge Rules One Of Three Police Recruits Must Be Black

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that one out of every three new city police recruits for the next five years must be black to correct "the results of past discrimination."

U.S. District Judge Charles Allen ruled Tuesday that the city did not hire enough black policemen in seven recent years.

"Where there is a significant under-representation of an ethnic minority, and where violations of the federal Civil Rights Act have occurred, there is an obligation upon the court to remedy that past discrimination," Allen said in his ruling.

His rule of one black recruit for every two white ones is to be in effect until the end of 1984. Allen calculated that by then, the percentage of black officers in the department will have grown from about 7 percent to just under 15 percent.

Through a comparison of 1970 census statistics, Allen concluded that blacks constitute 15 percent of the Louisville-area labor market from which the city can select its officers.

The ruling came in a class action suit filed five years ago by the Louisville Black Police Officers Organization against the city, alleging racial discrimination in police hiring, promotion and discipline.

The promotion and discipline areas were not dealt with in Tuesday's ruling. Allen indicated he expects to consider those issues in the future.

The decision is expected to pave the way for new recruit classes. The city agreed to a freeze on recruits in 1977 until the suit was settled.

As a result of the cut-off, the size of the city force has continued to drop, and by this summer the number of police officers with full arrest powers was down to 680 — the lowest since 1972 and well below the authorized strength of 743.

Republican Offers Gubernatorial Opponent Show-And-Tell Deal

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Republican Louie Nunn has offered his Democratic opponent in the November gubernatorial election a show-and-tell deal following the suggestion of a newspaper columnist.

Nunn said Tuesday that if Democrat John Y. Brown Jr. would go on television with him and release his tax returns, Nunn would tell what he knows about $100,000 in left-over Nixon campaign funds delivered to him for use by the 1971 Kentucky GOP gubernatorial campaign.

Nunn referred to a proposal by a columnist for a Louisville newspaper, John Filatreau of The Courier-Journal, that Nunn and Brown make those revelations.

In Tuesday's column, Filatreau called the governor's race "murderously boring" — with Nunn "snarling and growling on the stump" and Brown "issuing position papers of astonishing vacuity on virtually a daily basis."

He proposed "a deal," that Brown release his tax returns for the past 10 years, and Nunn tell what happened to the $100,000 sent into Kentucky in 1971 by "the Watergate gang."

Nunn said he is willing to go on television to discuss the money if Brown appears with him and releases his tax returns.

He said he is willing to pay half the cost of the television time.

The response from the Brown campaign was brief. "Why should we attract an audience for a loser? He's going to slide right out of the race on his own mud," said Brown campaign chairman Larry Townsend.

Nunn's remarks followed an address to a Rotary Club luncheon in Louisville.

Nunn aide Richard Lobb called The Associated Press about the Filatreau proposal and said Nunn would use the luncheon as an occasion to "fulfill his end of it."

Nunn did not mention the matter during his talk, however. Nor did he elaborate on the campaign-fund question later, when he told reporters of his challenge to Brown.

Asked if he knew what happened to the money, Nunn said, "Yeah, I know where the money went. I've told before."

The question has been raised in the past.

According to a deposition filed in August 1973 by Herbert W. Kalmbach, one of former President Richard Nixon's chief fund-raisers, $100,000 in cash was brought to Kentucky and given to then-Gov. Nunn.

Nunn was quoted in news accounts as saying he "didn't count the money" handed him by Kalmbach, "so I don't know how much was there. It was reportedly $100,000 but I don't know. They gave it to me because they knew me and they told me it was for the Emberton campaign."

He referred to Thomas

Emberton, the GOP candidate for the governor's seat Nunn was about to vacate.

Nunn said he gave the funds to Roy Pfautch, a St. Louis-based Emberton campaign consultant, in the presence of Emberton campaign coordinator Fred Karem.

Pfautch and Karem later said the money was used, in Pfautch's words, "in the normal channels of the campaign."

But it was not reported to the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance, as required by law.

Nunn and Larry Van Hoose, executive director of the Kentucky Republican Party, have said recently that they do not know Pfautch's current whereabouts.

Nunn did not indicate Tuesday whether he would add to those previous accounts in the event of a television appearance with Brown.

On another matter, Nunn's headquarters issued a news release saying Brown misrepresented Nunn's record when he charged that Nunn failed to appoint any black Kentuckians to state college or university boards of trustees.

The release said Nunn appointed Woodford Porter of Louisville, a black funeral director and former school board member, to the University of Louisville board July 1, 1970.

It also said Nunn would appoint a "broad spectrum of outstanding Kentuckians, blacks as well as white," to major posts including college boards.

The release accused Brown of "half-truths and untruths," but Brown spokesman Don Mills said Porter was not nominated by Nunn. Mills said Porter was nominated by Louisville Mayor Frank Burke in 1970 and "all Mr. Nunn did was approve the nomination. He didn't make the nomination."

Nunn's headquarters also announced Wednesday that the GOP candidate had been endorsed by the Kentucky ProLife Political Action Committee, the political arm of the Lexington-based Kentucky Right to Life organization.

The group said Nunn "has taken pro-life positions on all major issues relating to right to life," while Brown "does not share our sense of urgency" on such matters.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A $1.3 million award has been made to University of Michigan medical researchers for a three-year recombinant DNA research project.

The university says the "research is directed to understanding the genetic basis of birth defects through use of advanced genetic research methods."

Mental Health-Retardation Head Gives Time Of Annual Banquet

Dr. Ben Humphreys, chairman of the Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board, Inc., has announced that the 1979 Annual Banquet of the regional board will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the Commons Area of Mayfield High School on Thursday, September 20, 1979. The regional program has set its theme for the coming year around "Keeping the 'community' in Community Mental Health."

In making the announcement, Dr. Humphreys indicated that community mental health programs will sometimes lose sight of their real intent to provide comprehensive services to the communities they represent. At the same time, the communities lose sight of their role in relation to supporting the community mental health program that is there to be of service to each of the residents of that "total community. In the coming year, the regional program in western Kentucky will be making a concerted effort to re-establish both roles in all of the communities served by the board.

Highlighting the Annual Banquet festivities will be entertainment by the "Kentucky Transfer" Barbershop Quartet. While a relatively young quartet, the "Kentucky Transfer" has already gained its share of prominence. In the quartet's first competition during the fall of 1976, it won the Illinois District Novice Quartet Championship and in subsequent competitions, the "Kentucky Transfer" consistently finished in the Top 10 in both district and international competitions. In the spring of 1979, the "Kentucky Transfer" garnered top honors in the Cardinal District International Preliminary contests in Indianapolis and were named the fourth place Medalist Quartet. The show the quartet will be presenting in Mayfield will include a blend of comedy, and a repertoire of contemporary barbershop standards, along with country, gospel, dance band-era and movie theme songs.

The banquet is open to the general public and reservations can be made by calling or writing the Office of Community Relations, Western Kentucky Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board, Inc., P. O. Box 1502, Paducah, Kentucky 42001. The telephone number in Paducah is 442-7121. There is $5.50 charge per seat for the banquet and entertainment.

TAKE A DEEP BREATH — Second graders Laura Ernstberger, Aimee Ford and Wendi Wolf enjoy their swimming class with Murray State University student instructor Bliss Hawes. All second graders in the Murray School System are having swimming lessons from Murray State physical education or recreation majors directed by Margaret Simmons, instructor, and Nita Head, assistant professor. This is the second year the Murray students have participated in the program.

Woman Has Portions Of Childhood Home Placed In Current House

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Fran Lubens admits that she's sentimental. That's why she's brought large portions of her childhood home in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and has a carpenter fitting them into her home here.

A carpenter spent two days dismantling two fireplaces, an oak staircase, the front door and a large window from the 100-year-old, two-story home.

Mrs. Lubens and her son loaded a truck with memories, including tables, mirrors, burnished brass doorknobs and locks, a walnut treadle sewing machine and a wooden gate.

She wanted to bring the bricks which surrounded the fireplace, but found them too cumbersome.

"It wasn't as hard as we thought," she said. "Finding a master craftsman to put it together after it was moved was the hardest part. It was almost like a puzzle deciding what goes where."

"I'm a very sentimental person. We were a closely knit family," she said.

Mrs. Lubens moved away from the home when she was married 33 years ago. Last summer, after she claimed the possessions she considered most precious, the house was razed to make room for a medical complex.

Program Supplement To Veterans' Wages During Job Training

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Many Kentucky veterans are not aware of a program which can supplement their wages during on-the-job training, said Edgar Vaughan III, director of the Kentucky Approving Agency for Veterans' Education. Wives and children of deceased or disabled veterans are eligible for the educational assistance allowance also.

In order to be eligible for the program, the veteran must:

- Have been in service between Jan. 31, 1955 and Dec. 31, 1976;
- Have been released from active duty less than 10 years ago (this does not apply to veterans' dependents); and
- Be employed and considered as an apprentice or trainee.

Vaughan said that at present, 475 Kentucky companies are active in the program, and most of them have one, two or three trainees enrolled. Approximately 1,000 trainees are participating.

Veterans or their dependents must make an application for benefits through the Veterans Administration. The Kentucky Approving Agency, a unit in the Bureau of Vocational Education, then contacts the firm and writes a training agreement for the individual employee's educational assistance. The job the veteran is training for must be one which requires at least six months of training.

"When a company is providing extensive training for a person, the starting salaries are usually fairly low," Vaughan explained. "The assistance program helps veterans make up for lost time and compensates them while they are increasing their earning power." The allowance is decreased every six months, and the employer is expected to increase wages as the trainee's skills develop.

Vaughan said that in writing a program for a particular firm, the agency often "formalizes what the firm has been doing all along." Most employers feel the program is an asset to them as well as the veteran. "It's a talking point for them to be able to say that the training program has been approved, and if the veteran is eligible, he'll be able to get the supplement. Also, veterans who are enrolled in the program tend to stay with the firm for a longer time than other employees do," he explained.

Both industrial and non-industrial training programs have been written up, he said. "We approve a lot of management training programs. Many of the fast-food chains and finance companies have regular programs for their employees, and we've been approving a number of them recently," he added.

Employers or veterans who want more information on the program may write to Edgar Vaughan III, Director, Kentucky Approving Agency for Veterans' Education, Kentucky Department of Education, 2036 Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call (502) 564-4340.

Variation Of Traditional Bread, Cornmeal Challah, Liked By All

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

You don't have to be Jewish to bake Cornmeal Challah. You just have to be a cook who enjoys varying a traditional bread.

Challah, in its true form, is made with white flour — no other grain added. It was originally baked to be served on the Jewish Sabbath that begins each week at sundown on Friday and ends when the first star is visible Saturday evening. However, it has become so popular that many local, general bakeries all over the United States offer it along with other breads to their clientele.

Challah's special flavor and texture come from the addition of plenty of eggs and a generous amount of fat. Another distinguishing characteristic is its shape. It's a braided loaf.

For the weekly Sabbath, the bread may be braided in simple or intricate fashion. But for Rosh Hashanah (the Jewish High Holidays, this year beginning Sept. 22) challahs may be shaped other ways. According to "The Best of Jewish Cooking," compiled by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Temple Beth Israel, Maywood, N.J., "these may be decorated with a dove or a ladder, symbolizing the hope that ... prayers will go up to heaven."

When we tried the following recipe for Cornmeal Challah we omitted the braiding. Instead we shaped the dough into two regular loaves and baked them in 8½ by 4½ by 2½ inch loaf pans. We used the rising times, oven temperature and baking time given for the braided loaves. Our loaves were delightfully fresh-tasting the day after baking and they made delicious crunchy toast.

CORNMEAL CHALLAH
2 packages dry yeast
1 cup warm water
1 cup boiling water
½ cup sugar
½ cup vegetable shortening
4 teaspoons salt
4½ to 5 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup yellow cornmeal
4 large eggs
2 teaspoons poppy seed

CORNMEAL CHALLAH—Variation of a traditional bread from Jewish cuisine.

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Pour boiling water over sugar, shortening and salt; cool to lukewarm; stir in 1 cup flour. Add dissolved yeast and cornmeal; mix well. Add 3 of the eggs; mix well. Stir in enough more flour to make a soft dough. Knead on a lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic — 8 to 10 minutes. Shape into a ball. Place in a large greased bowl, turning once to grease top.

MS Society To Sponsor Educational, Fund-Raising Event

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society is sponsoring an educational and fund-raising activity this fall in Kentucky and other chapters throughout the United States.

Southwest Calloway Elementary School is one of the many schools offering the Read-a-thon to its young readers, grades 2 through 6. Registered students become "Mystery Sleuths", helping the Multiple Sclerosis Society find the cause and cure for MS by reading books.

The Read-a-thon works like the popular walk-a-thons and bike-a-thons, except that the children find sponsors to pledge a fixed amount of money for each book read. The program lasts four weeks with each participating child receiving a certificate of accomplishment at the end of the program.

Mrs. Vicki Ragsdale has volunteered to serve as Read-a-thon Coordinator for the Western Kentucky Chapter at Southwest Calloway Elementary School. Mrs. Ragsdale is the librarian at Southwest Calloway. The Read-a-thon will take place between the months of October and November.

Multiple Sclerosis is a chronic diagnosed disease of the central nervous system that affects over a half million Americans and millions more around the world, but as yet science has not found a cause or cure.

Dam Selected Conference Site

FRANKFORT — Kentucky Dam Village in Gilbertsville has been selected by the Legislative Research Commission (LRC) as the site of the pre-legislative conference.

Dates for the three-day conference will be at the discretion of LRC director Vic Hellard Jr., subject to negotiation with the state resort park staff. The LRC motion stated the dates should be as soon as possible after the November election.

Commission members rejected a subcommittee recommendation that the conference be held at the Galt House in Louisville. The recommendation was submitted by the three-member Subcommittee on Site Selection.

Kentucky Dam Village has been the conference site since the 1950s. After creation of LRC in 1948, the first conference was split so that the state Senate met at Cumberland Falls State Resort Park and the House met at Kentucky Dam Village. Subsequent conferences have been held jointly at the Gilbertsville resort.

The subcommittee considered proposals from Frankfort, Lexington, Louisville and the park before recommending the Galt House. Reasons for selection of the Louisville hotel were: central location with one-fourth of the legislators residing in Louisville; fuel conservation by reducing travel; availability of dates and facilities; reasonable room rates and desirability of having all facilities in one building, the subcommittee cited.

Rep. Dwight Wells (D-Richmond), subcommittee chairman, said he felt due to the quickness of the motion to hold the conference at the park again, commission members already had their minds made up about the site. Wells said, therefore, the time of subcommittee members and staff was wasted.

Sen. Delbert Murphy (D-Owensboro), a proponent of the Kentucky Dam Village site, said it is better if state money is spent at a state facility, "from pocket to pocket," rather than at a private facility.

Sen. Eugene Stuart (R-Prospect) said he feels there are less distractions and a "more business-like atmosphere" at the park.

In other business, the LRC: —Voted not to approve attendance by Sen. Jim Hammond (D-Prestonsburg) at the American Association of State Compensation Insurance Fund annual conference, Scottsdale, Ariz. Objections to Hammond's attendance centered on the fact he will not return to the General Assembly in 1980. Sen. Hammond is chairman of the Subcommittee on Workmen's Compensation.

—Approved a recommendation by the Special Subcommittee on Statewide Information Retrieval that LRC make use of computer bank systems presently available. Rep. William Donnemeyer (D-Belleue), subcommittee chairman, said printouts from computer banks like the Kentucky Economic Information System, State Council of Economic Advisors, can now be obtained in two days. Delivery time could be cut to 10 minutes with addition of a $10,000 piece of equipment, he said. Subcommittee study will continue.

—Accepted the resignation of Rep. Henry List (D-Lexington) from the Public Utilities and Transportation Committee. List, recently employed by Kentucky Utilities Co., said he wanted to avoid appearance of conflict of interest.

—Passed over a motion by the Appropriations and Revenue Committee that recommended legislators not on A&R budget review subcommittees be allowed to attend, with pay, meetings in a non-voting advisory capacity.

—Passed over recommended guidelines for review of new licensing proposals approved by the Committee on Business Organizations and Professions.

Jesus Christ.

A lot of people swear with these words, but there are others who swear by them.

Some folks feel that the teachings of Jesus should play a more important part in their lives, but they feel put upon by the "do's and don'ts" of churches. They would like to go to church, but they can't quite swallow the dogma that some churches insist upon. It's just easier to go fishing or golfing on Sunday morning.

But the emptiness is still there.

There is an alternative. The Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) was founded during frontier days to encourage simplicity of belief and worship. Frontier people wanted a down-to-earth religion to help them cope with and understand their hard life. As individuals, they felt they could read and interpret the Bible for themselves and build faith through an understanding of God's word.

That same belief lives in the modern Christian Church. If you're looking for a church where you can really feel at home, come and worship with us this Sunday.

Man Claims To Have Best Mailing List Around

By JERRY SCHWARTZ
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hypnotists cost $35 a thousand, the same as periodontists, pits and quarries, and journalism colleges. Ice and roller skating rinks are a bit more — $40 per thousand.

Alvin B. Zeller will sell you all these things — or rather, he will sell you lists that contain names and address for individuals and companies in all these categories.

Zeller claims to have the best mailing lists around. His lists are used for a lot of things, chief among them direct mail advertising — otherwise known as "junk mail."

"We can do all sorts of things," Zeller says. "We can take urban residents and we can take farm residents...We've had calls for farmers by crop — only cotton farmers who have a thousand acres or more. We can be very pinpointed, very specific."

Indeed, Zeller's 1980-81 catalog offers more than 2,500 categories, ranging from 15 xylophone manufacturers for $20 to 2 million office workers at $50 per 1,000.

There's 35,000 millionaires, at a price of $75 per 1,000; 11,500 Jewish contributors, very large, $50 per 1,000; and 5,650 jails, prisons and reformatories, $25 per 1,000.

Zeller has been in the business for 29 years, and perhaps that's why his speech is littered with lists. For example, who buys Alvin B. Zeller lists?

"We sell largely to publishing companies, advertising agencies, manufacturers, fund-raising organizations, ordinary individual firms that have a product to sell...or somebody who has a private word to say," he said.

And where do the lists come from?

"We get them from a combination of telephone directories, we have a huge library of every trade directory, every professional directory, every roster, every membership list."

There are medical associations that offer us lists of doctors, there are legal associations that offer us lists of lawyers, the states publish many, many lists of accountants and engineers and architects, day care centers and whatever," he said.

All of these facts are plugged into computers, to be compiled on demand. Zeller estimates his computers contain 100 million names.

"For instance, we have about 60 million names that are residential families. Now, we can break that down by income echelons. ...We say that carefully, because some people don't like to know that we know they're making 10-, 20- or 100-thousand dollars."

"Everybody is categorized by what they have done, by what they do, by what they buy, by where they go. We go from the small people to the large people," he said.

"We have calls from people who want Polish names in Nebraska, or Spanish names in New Mexico, or Jewish names in Miami. ...We have religious names and ethnic names, Jewish doctors and non-Jewish dentists."

There are expensive lists and cheaper lists. The most expensive are lists of investors, going for $100 or $200 per 1,000. Zeller says he simply figures his cost and adds a markup, without considering the nature of the lists involved.

For example, dynamite and explosives manufacturers cost $40 per 1,000, the same price as hospitals with more than 1,000 beds but $15 more than mayors or state legislators.

The home addresses of corporate presidents go for $50 per 1,000, double the cost of a list of wives of high-income executives.

Quaker, Mormon, Eastern Orthodox, Unitarian, Mennonite and Evangelical churches cost $30 per 1,000; all others cost $25.

"A list is important for its content," says Zeller. "Sometimes the quantity is not Factor. One with the 'niche' in this decade."

Factor One, Zeller says, is impact. He says direct mail advertising has found its "niche" in this decade.

For those who hate junk mail, or perhaps object to that massive computer stuffed with names and information, Zeller says he will purge the computer of names on request.

"But you'd be surprised, we get people who ask to have their names put on to mailing lists," he said. "They're afraid they're missing something. We get a great number of them. I get letters every day, 'Please add my name to your mailing lists.'"

Over 2,500 Expected To Attend Medical Meeting

Over 2500 Kentucky physicians, guests and allied health professionals are expected to attend the 129th annual meeting of the Kentucky Medical Association to be held at the Bluegrass Convention Center, Louisville, Kentucky, on Sept. 24-27, 1979.

In addition, over 100 scientific, education and technical exhibits, and 21 speciality group meetings will contribute to the overall scientific atmosphere of the annual meeting.

James H. Sammons, M. D., executive vice president of the American Medical Association, will be the featured speaker at the President's Luncheon honoring Carl Cooper, Jr., M. D., 1978-79 KMA president, Wednesday, Sept. 26. Other highlights of the luncheon will be the presentation of KMA's highest awards and the installation of the 1979-80 KMA president, Robert S. # Food Additives Part Of American Way Of Eating

Food additives are so much a part of the American way of eating today that it would be hard to put together a meal that did not include some additive. Even such a "natural" food as home-made bread contains additives such as yeast to make it rise and give it a light texture and salt to bring out the flavor. And yet additives are often very controversial, with some consumer advocates claiming that our foods are sprinkled with unnecessary chemicals just to aid in processing and selling. It is the role of the Food and Drug Administration to ascertain the safety of all food additives, a role it practices daily.

A number of additives have been banned from the dinner table in recent years (probably the best known and most controversial is the sugar substitute saccharin for which a limited ban has been proposed). Nevertheless, some 2,800 substances are intentionally added to foods to produce a desired effect. Another 10,000 substances find their way into foods during production and processing. These include infinitesimal residues of pesticides used to treat crops, chemicals that migrate from plastic packaging materials, etc. It is also FDA's job to see that these substances are kept to infinitesimal amounts.

Those 2,800 substances that are intentionally added to foods are put in there for one of four purposes. The purposes are designed to meet the eating demands of a largely urban society that lives, for the most part, long distances from its food supplies. Today's eaters may also want their food to be conveniently packaged and prepared and available year round. All of which requires additives.

Controversy and convenience aside, here's a quick review of food additives broken down to the four purposes they serve:

— To maintain or improve nutritional value. Many foods are fortified with vitamins and minerals that might otherwise be lacking in a person's diet. Examples: vitamin D in milk, vitamin A in margarine, iodine in table salt.

— To maintain freshness.

Foods last as long as they do on the shelf today or in the refrigerator because of additives that retard spoilage, preserve natural color and flavor, and keep fats and oils from turning rancid. Examples: nitrites used to protect cured meats, fish, and poultry from contamination; ascorbic acid (vitamin C) to keep uncooked peaches from turning brown, and antioxidants such as BHA and BHT used to help prevent changes in color, flavor, or texture that occur when some foods are exposed to air.

— To help in processing or preparation. These compounds give body and texture to foods, evenly distribute particles of one liquid in another, affect cooking or baking results, control acidity or alkalinity, and retain moisture. Examples: emulsifiers (mixers) to give peanut butter and mayonnaise consistent texture and prevent them from separating into an oily layer at the top of the jar and a dry layer at the bottom; thickeners to prevent ice crystals from forming in frozen foods such as ice cream, and leavening agents such as yeast and baking powder.

— To make food more appealing. These are for looks and taste. They include coloring agents, natural and synthetic flavors, flavor enhancers such as MSG (monosodium glutamate), and sweeteners.

If you want more information about food additives, contact your nearest FDA district office at 297 Plus Park Blvd., Nashville, TN 37217.

Eight Counties Served

FRANKFORT — A Department for Human Resources pilot project aimed at providing comprehensive, preventive health services to selected rural Medicaid recipients has so far served more than 150 families in eight counties.

The federally funded Health for Underserved Rural Areas (HURA) project may eventually lead to expansion of health services to all Kentuckians receiving Medicaid assistance, according to Jack Waddell, acting commissioner of the department's Bureau for Social Insurance.

The demonstration project is funded by U. S. Public Health Service grants of $203,000 for each of the past two federal fiscal years.

Three Rivers and Lake Cumberland district health departments are participating in the project. Services are provided to residents of Carroll, Gallatin, Pendleton, Owen, Cumberland, McCreary, Pulaski and Wayne counties.

On Oct. 1, Wedco District Health Department will begin offering project services to persons in Bourbon, Clark, Nicholas, Scott and Harrison counties.

Through the HURA grants, the health departments are offering a variety of preventive health services to selected recipients. Services include specialized education programs for patients with high blood pressure or diabetes, nutrition counseling and TB testing.

Another expanded service involves the Early Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment Program, which offers regular health checkups and treatment to Medicaid-eligible children under 21. For the HURA demonstration project, those services will be extended to all members of participating families.

Usually, Kentucky's Medicaid program reimburses health departments for four health services: home health care, family planning services, counseling on appropriate use of medical resources, and the screening and treatment program.

Those services will continue to be available to participants in the demonstration program, according to Waddell.

Last February, Three Rivers became the first health department to deliver health services under the grant. Human Resources spent the first one and one-half years of the 1977-79 grant period selecting and reaching agreements with participating health departments, planning and starting a related research project to study methods of improving access and use of health care service throughout the state. The research is part of the demonstration project, Waddell said.

During the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, Human Resources estimates about 1,000 more families will receive expanded health

Murrayans See Familiar Face On ABC News Show

Murrayans who watched the ABC-TV program "20-20" last Thursday may have recognized a familiar face during one segment of the show.

Dr. Richard Blalock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Blalock of Canterbury Estates, was filmed during the part of the show dealing with the death of Elvis Presley.

While not involved in the investigation of Elvis' death, Blalock, a graduate of the University of Louisville School of Medicine in his first year of residency at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, was shown giving resuscitation to a patient in the emergency room at the hospital.

The film of the procedure administered by Blalock was used during the program as an example of the treatment given Presley upon his arrival at the Baptist Hospital emergency room the day of his death.

Dr. Blalock is frequently seen on the sidelines at both Murray High and Murray State football games as one of his major interests is sports medicine.

An open horse show, sponsored by the Hardin and South Marshall Riding Club, will be held at the West Kentucky Livestock Show and Exposition Center on College Farm Road beginning at 6 p.m. Sept. 22.

Classes for the show include Halter, English and Western Pleasure, Horsemanship, timed events, and a pony lead line class for children six years old and younger.

Five place trophies will be awarded in most of the classes and the cost of entering the show is $3 per class.

General admission is $1. Anyone interested in further information may contact Tom Bell (502) 753-5003.

Other events scheduled at the West Kentucky Livestock Show and Exposition Center this year include:

A 4-H and Future Farmers of America (FFA) Steer Show and Sale will begin with the show at 9 a.m. and the sale following at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 24. Further information may be obtained by contacting Harvey Ellis (502) 753-3231.

The Hardin and South Marshall Riding Club will sponsor another open horse show from 6 p.m. to midnight, Saturday, Oct. 27.

On Wednesday, Oct. 3, the Hanford Circus will give two performances. The first
